Art Unit: 1724

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 17-40 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hashimoto et al. 4,382,864. Hashimoto et al. disclose (see col. 4 line 58 through col. 7 line 10) a process for treating sludge substantially as claimed. The claims differ from Hashimoto et al. by reciting the use of a specific shear stirring of the sludge and flocculating agent. It is submitted that the intense agitation and flocs utilized in Hashimoto et al. are considered patentably indistinguishable from the shear stirring and flocks utilized in the instant invention. It would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to modify the process of Hashimoto et al. by including the recited shear stirring, to aid in mixing the flocculating agent with the sludge. The specific speed and flocculation injection part utilized, and use of a second flocculating agent and stirrer would have been an obvious matter of process optimization to one skilled in the art, depending on the specific sludge treated and results desired, absent a sufficient showing of unexpected results.

Applicant alleges that the agitation of Hashimoto et al. fails to suggest shear-stirring sludge and a flocculating agent as recited in the instant claims. It is submitted that the teachings of Hashimoto et al. as applied above disclose the use of an impeller or stirrer installed in a mixing vessel to produce intense or strong agitation. It would appear that this agitation would disperse, diffuse, or distribute the flocculating agent in a fine particulate state throughout the sludge as in the instant invention. Furthermore, applicant has not supplied sufficient comparative evidence with Hashimoto et al. to support the above allegation.

Applicant alleges that the claimed process for treating sludge provides advantages that are not provided by Hashimoto et al. Applicant has not provided sufficient probative evidence to support the above allegation. It is submitted that evidence of non-obviousness should be presented in the form of a Declaration or Affidavit in accordance with 37 CFR 1.132 and MPEP 716. Furthermore, the specific test conditions utilized to produce the results shown in the attached Figures 1-4, have not been disclosed.

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
